In Search of Parzival: an Inner and Outer Journey

April 5—25, 2014

with Brian Gray from Rudolf Steiner College and further contributions from Andrew Wolpert in England, Adriaan Luijk in France and Miha Pogacnik (to be confirmed) in Slovenia.

This is a traveling exploration of Wolfram von Eschenbach's epic tale, Parzival. The tour encompasses sites where the Arthurian stream in Great Britain and Little Britain connects with the Grail stream in locations identified by Rudolf Steiner and others in France and Switzerland, as well as sites significant to Parzival's quest in Slovenia identified by Viktor Stracke, Sergei Prokofieff and Miha Pogacnik.

The Arthurian sites of the Round Table bear memories of cosmic Pre-Christian Hibernian and Druidic mysteries of the Sun, Moon, stars and Zodiac. The Grail sites call forth medieval Christian legends of Joseph of Arimathea, Titurel, and Frimutel. These mystery places set the stage for Parzival's quest in the ninth century to overcome personal folly and achieve compassion and love. Rudolf Steiner relates that Parzival's quest is archetypal for our own spiritual quest in present and future times.

This tour will interweave mystery streams living in the Arthurian, Grail and Parzival sites with the re-telling of Wolfram's epic tale from a Zodiacal perspective and many insights originating in Rudolf Steiner's research. Please join us as we explore these mysteries together on this tour.
